A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops.

— Henry Brooks Adams

Many teachers influence large numbers of students, but only a few in so many fields as Mr. Spickler. Not only does he add a special flair to his own classes by quoting Mark Twain and holding shoot-outs, but he helps many other activities.

On a typical evening, from the right position, one can see Mr. Spickler in a sweat suit jogging between track practice outdoors and Parchment meetings in the English Resource Center. To find him in the morning, one must search the madness of the senior homeroom where he, along with other brave teachers, must face the always late class of '73.

But Mr. Spickler does not limit himself to before and after school activities. Along about February until April or May for the last two years, he could be found backstage at Oliver and My Fair Lady. Chances are good he'll be there this year also.

So to a man who is always helping, the '73 yearbook staff and the Class of '73 dedicate the 1973 Tricorn.

Life is the most intricate of games played by men. The players win one time and just assuredly lose the next time. There is no such thing as a sure thing in games. Those who plan their game-plays do better than those who don't. Yet chance can easily wipe out their efforts. Success will come their way just as well as disappointment.

To a nice friend. Have fun
in the future.
R.U.G.F.A.
Brendan Miller

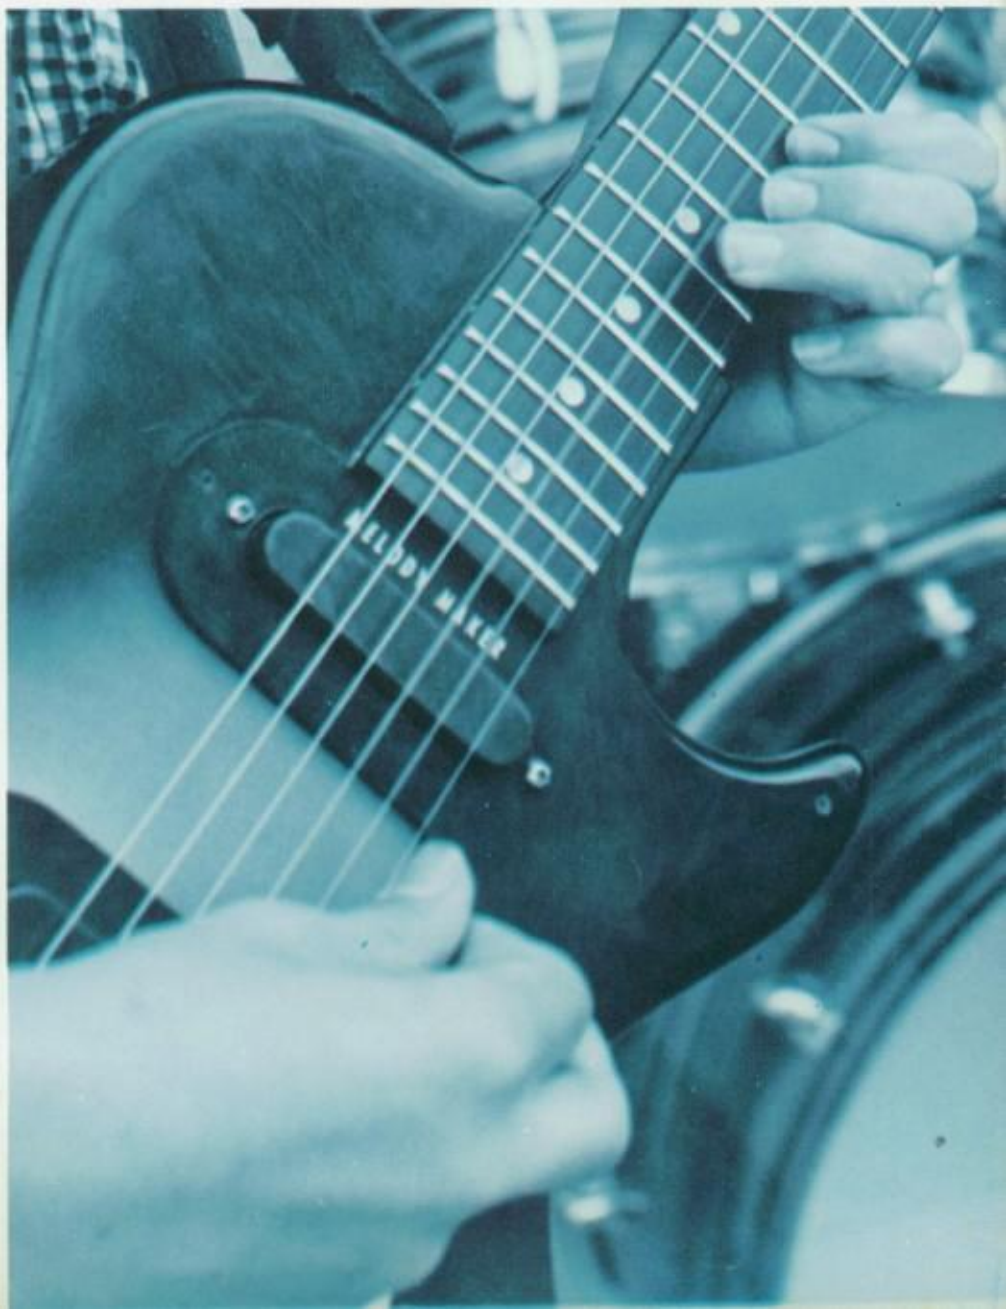
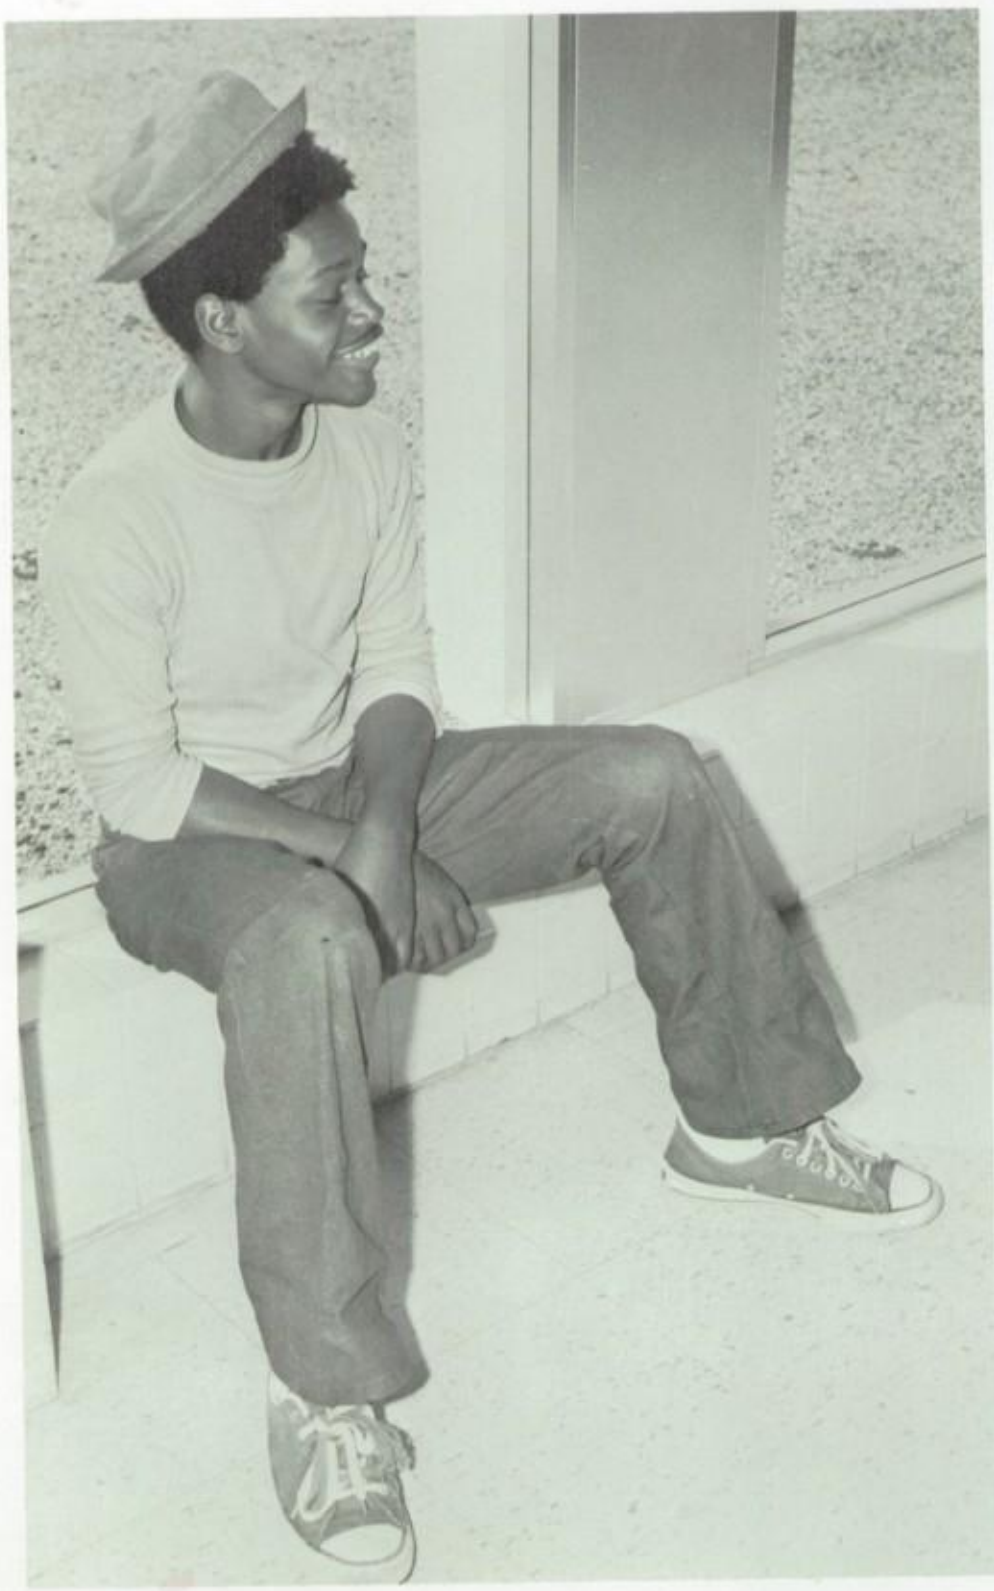
To play the game of life one must follow his own set of rules. There are only one or two definite rules, the rest are set by humanity and courtesy. Each has his own drive to get ahead and to compete with the other players. To those with the right rules, the right luck, and the right plan there will come triumph more often than defeat. To some, chance is the best way to play the game. To others a constant and forward drive should win. To a few, money is the only way to play the game. To a very few, life is too complicated to play and they choose to drop out of the game.



"With most men life is like backgammon — half skill and half luck."

O. W. Holmes



So men play games and men play the game of life. They make some connections between the two and use them as a clue to play each better. Some men learn to use the hard steady drive and are winners through their careers. Other men depend on chance or luck, and some of them come in for easy money. No matter what game plan he uses or what part of the game he plays, every man playing the game of life is searching for his own monopoly.

Junior Social Studies

Teaching the student to think for himself is the primary objective of the social studies department. It provides the student with the concepts and modes of inquiry to be found in the social sciences and history.

Art

The art program is more than just courses and activities confined to the art room. It seeks to teach the student the relationship of art to everyday living.

Varsity Football

The 1972 Football Team carried on the tradition of winning and good sportsmanship. After the heartbreaking defeat at South Hagerstown, the team bounced back to post a 8-2 record. The seniors can especially be proud of their career at T.J. This season was highlighted by the outstanding running Dickie Hall and Willie Gantt; the blocking by Greg Fry, Bob Compton, Keith Cutsail, Rick Weber, and Jim Hood; and the pass catching by Jim Bohn and David Hubbard. The defense was lead by all-state linebacker Kenny Reynolds, tackle Bill Johnson, and safety Roy Main. Other seniors who played for the first year and who contributed to the success of the team were Larry Heim, Matt Bowers, Kenny Miller, Jim Scott. With the return of many sophomore and juniors, football should continue to be successful. We have been proud to be your coaches.

'The time has come,' the Walrus said,
'To talk of many things:
Of shoes — and ships — and sealing-wax —
Of cabbages — and kings —
And why the sea is boiling hot —
And whether pigs have wings.'
